Great Reductions In Clothing Prices

General reduction of prices in merchandise, especially clothing, was reported today throughout the country. Merchandise in many large cities was cut from 20 to 50 per cent. Newspapers in New York City were filled with ads. The reason given for the reduction was a "slow" spring season with people buying small and leaving merchants with stocked up shelves. The tight money market also was to blame. Congestion of freight movement due to lack of cars and the railroad strike prevented proper distribution of merchandise. Food has not been generally included in the downward trend. Grocers in some sections declare a decrease can be expected soon. Prices have been cut throughout all the middle west cities with the exception of Detroit and Cleveland.

NEW YORK, May 19—Prices are on the toboggan, according to the opinion of leading merchants and business men today. Cutting of prices from 15 to 30 per cent. on all lines of merchandise by many stores is indicative of the break, they agreed. The drop was due to a general slump of public buying and tight money conditions in the opinion of financial leaders.

U. S. WILL REFUSE RECOGNITION TO REBELS IF VILLA IS GIVEN POST

WASHINGTON, May 19—The proposed appointment of Pancho Villa as chief of the Mexican constabulary might cause President Wilson to withhold recognition of the new government it was learned today. Villa is held responsible by the United States for the raid on Columbus, N. M., in 1916.

NEW IRISH POLICY EVIDENT

LONDON, May 19—The government's new Irish policy formulated in the recent Downing street conference here was beginning to be more apparent today. In the future, according to information here, no offenders will be jailed or suspects be held until evidence is obtained. Numerous military posts are being established throughout the island. Flying columns of infantry supported by armored cars are being held in reserve to swoop down on terrorist meetings in an effort to catch the offenders red handed.

CONGRESS WILL RECESS JUNE 4th

WASHINGTON, May 19—June 4th will probably be the date set for the Congressional recess or adjournment. It has not yet been definitely decided whether a sine die adjournment will be taken or merely a recess. If they adjourn on June 4th it will give those members who desire to go to the Republican national convention at Chicago on Tuesday time in which to make the trip.

ONLY ONE MORE DAY TO DO YOUR BIT FOR SALVATIONISTS

The Clearfield drive for the Salvation Army Home Service fund will close tomorrow and the local committee in charge is anxious to make a good showing and close the books with the full quota subscribed. Therefore all persons who have not already done so should see one of the solicitors and make his or her contribution.

The Salvation Army home service is too well known by everybody to need encomium or comment at our hands and as funds are badly needed for the proper development of the army's activities along charitable and character building lines nobody should hesitate one moment over contributing.

The army's activities are strictly non-denominational. Every man and every creed looks alike to the Salvation Army worker and none should hesitate to contribute on racial or creedal grounds.

Clearfield people have always responded nobly to all similar charitable appeals and should not be lacking in this important campaign. Make your contribution, resting ac-sure the money will be utilized in the alleviation of suffering and distress and to the very best advantage.

If you cannot find one of the soliciting committee, give your name and the amount of your contribution to Captain or Mrs. Raub and when the drive closes tomorrow evening you can rest content in the thought of having complied with a public Christian duty.

JONES WINS FOR CONGRESS BY 500; BOAL AND SCOTT LIKELY DELEGATES

DEHASS, PHILLIPS AND MILLER AHEAD
FOR LEGISLATURE WITH PIDGEON
A VERY CLOSE FOURTH

GILLETTE MADE A FINE SHOWING

On the basis of late returns from all sections this afternoon it appears that Congressman Jones will win over Geo. Minns, Jr., by from 500 to 600. Jones lost Clearfield county but his home county will give him a vote of from 1100 to 1300 over his opponent.

For the legislature DeHass, Phillips and Miller are generally conceded to have won the coveted places.

By far the greatest contest was staged for delegate to the national convention. Major Boal will undoubtedly win first place and H. B. Scott of Philipsburg, on the face of late returns will win over Gillette by four or five hundred.

Following are the returns received up to noon, and embrace the figures for 84 of the 97 districts in the county:

Congress.
Evan J. Jones	1498
George Minns	2091

Legislature.
DeHass	1875
Phillips	1364
Miller	1738
Pidgeon	1637
Buchanan	1333
Reay	1265

District Delegates to National Convention.
Boal	1333
Booze	1298
Scott	1146
Donaldson	1072
Gillette	919
Gaffney	638

Centre County District Delegate
Boal	1737
Scott	1496
Gillette	814

Congress.
Jones	1488
Minns	1304

Legislature.
Beaver	1635
Harvey	1394

State Committee
Guffey	713
Bonnivell	959

State Committee
Gingery	1010
Guppy	598

On the Democratic side the vote from 82 of the 97 precincts tabulated up to noon stood:

For National Committee.

Guffey	713
Bonnivell	959

Gingery	1010
Guppy	598

There was no opposition on the district or local Democratic tickets, the nominees being:

Congress.

J. D. Connelly, of Clearfield.

District Delegates.

J. Frank Snyder, Clearfield.

J. L. Spangler, Bellefonte.

Legislature.

G. W. Bell, Bellefonte.

R. H. Lucas, Clearfield.

John P. Rogers, DuBois.

Yesterday's primary election brought out about one-third of the vote in Clearfield county and will go down in history as about the poorest attended Presidential primary election in the history of the game. The ballot was a sockdolager to count and there was an exasperating delay in getting the returns last night and today.

No attention whatever was paid to the vote for the State-wide candidates on either the Republican or Democratic tickets, although the State Organization State for State Officers and Delegates at Large went through on the Republican ticket.

Judge Sylvester Sadler, of Carlisle, is leading Judge Kunkel of Dauphin county, for the Supreme Court Judgeship by a slight margin.

On the Democratic side the Palmer-McCormick crowd carried the county for Joseph E. Guffey, of Pittsburgh, for National Committeeman over Judge Bonnivell, of Philadelphia, while Don Gingery, of Clearfield, was elected member of the State Committee from Clearfield county over D. D. Guppy, also of Clearfield, the anti-Palmer candidate.

Major John A. Farrell, of Chester, the anti-Palmer candidate for United States Senator, easily carried the county over Democratic State Chairman Rupp, the Palmer candidate.

Yesterday's primary election showed the lightest vote cast in Clearfield county at a primary in years. The lack of votes or interest in the county districts was charged to the desire of the farmer to make up for lost time due to the very backward spring, the prudent husbandman in large numbers preferring to remain on the farm planting corn and sowing oats rather than to take time off to go to the polls to vote.

The small vote was appreciated alone by the different election officers, members of which had the time of their lives attempting to count the small vote east. Owing to the fact of its being a presidential primary with its consequent large list of candidates for delegates to the national convention, etc., entailed a burden on the election boards which completely swamped a lot of them. As a natural consequence the returns were slower in coming in than at any time in recent political history. The little town of Wallacetown, always first to be heard from, did not get its handful of votes counted and reported until 9 o'clock.

The County Commissioners office was kept open for receiving returns, but up until 3:30 o'clock, when the last of the hard-boiled election figure hounds "gave up the ghost" and sought their trundle beds, but 14 of the 97 precincts in the county had been heard from, and as these were largely located in the DuBois end of the county and of course favored their local candidates, the dopesters were unable to figure the approximate result and the fellow who stayed up to see it through had little edge on the wisecracker who sought his bed and got his regular eight-hour sleep.

In Clearfield borough only about nine hundred votes were polled, the totals for the different candidates being as follows:

ELECTION RESULTS INTERESTING AT CITY OF DUBOIS

DuBois, May 19—Although the weather was just right for an election yesterday the voting was very light but considerable interest was stirred up through the day as a result of the spirited delegate fight. Because of the size of the ballot and the various bond issues that were voted election boards had their trouble and the returns were unusually slow in coming in. It was not until after 2 o'clock that the final figures for the city were received and then they were not complete. The voting in a sense was rather peculiar candidates showing unusual strength in some wards and being woefully weak in others.

One of the very gratifying features of the day's battle at the polls was the fact that the city bond issue carried by a large majority, the verdict being 3 to 1 in favor of the issuance of the bonds for the purpose of buying fire equipment. This city also gave the county bond issue a good majority, the figures being almost three to one in favor of the bonds.

For Assembly two of the home candidates, Buchanan and Reay, stood high, while DeHass captured the third position.

The delegate fight proved to be a good one and Boozie emerged at the head of the list, Donaldson running second and Scott third.

The tabulated vote is as follows:

Physical training of a more or less degree for all public school pupils of DuBois is to be added to the school curriculum for the next term, as the result of action taken by the board of school directors.

City Superintendent T. T. Allen outlined plans for providing a physical instructor in making up his budget and the budget was adopted as recommended. The new department will provide physical training for all students. The fine gymnasium at the High School will be used daily for the High School students, where the supervisor of physical training will be located and have charge of the classes. Training for the students of the grades will be provided indirectly, the various teachers taking the training from the supervisor and passing it on to the students under them. The development of the various basketball, football and other athletic team will be one feature of the training, the supervisor to act as coach for the various teams.

Mrs. Paul Stauffer entertained at a bridge and sewing party this afternoon at her home on Locust street. Four tables of bridge were in play.

Mrs. George Johnson and son Arden are spending a few days in Pittsburgh.

Miss Jane Smith, of Alton, Ohio, is visiting at home and friends here.

ROAD BOND ISSUE PASSES

Clearfield County voters approved of the proposition of bonding the county for One Million Dollars to build good roads by a two to one majority.

First Move Made To Correct Rail Defect

WASHINGTON, May 18—The Inter-State Commerce Commission today made its first move to break the serious congestion on the railroads, caused by the nation-wide car shortage and to some extent by continuance of the so-called "outlaw" switchmen and yardmen strike.

In issuing orders today for a heavy movement of box cars from the east to the middle west and northwest sections, the commission indicated that a much more comprehensive plan of relieving the congestion will be put into effect within the next day or two.

The movement of cars to the grange sections, it was explained, was only the initial step. It will be followed by sweeping regulations governing priority of shipment of necessities and other measures calculated to remedy the situation.

At a meeting with the railroad executives scheduled for tomorrow, the commission expects to complete final arrangements for increasing the efficiency of the roads through centralization of control and a possible pooling of equipment.

Following an all-day session, in which the car shortage problem and the almost universal congestion of the roads were the sole topics of discussion, the commission issued a formal statement. It said in part:

"The movement of empty box cars suitable for transportation of grain continues in large volume from New England and Atlantic seaboard states to the grange regions of the Central and Northwest. These cars are being moved in solid trainloads under expedited orders, and their movement is now being watched continually to avoid any preventable delay in getting the equipment to the railroads where it is most needed.

"Simultaneously there is a movement in the reverse direction of trainloads of empty open-top cars, suitable for coal loading, from the Middle west to the coal producing sections of the east and southeast. This movement will be continued until a more proper balance of these classes of equipment is obtained, and should result in considerable relief, both by providing foodstuffs and fuel where needed, and by easing the financial strain resulting from the long continued inability to move these commodities."

MODERN HEALTH CRUSADE TAKEN UP IN SCHOOLS

Though it has been given little publicity, the Modern Health Crusade has gone steadily on in our schools and a large number of children throughout the county have been faithful and have attained the high rank of knight, with the silver badge and a few have become knights' banners, with a gold pin.

175 teachers and about 6,000 pupils in the county were supplied with materials. Most of these reached the rank of page, a large majority received the 'squire's button. A great many country schools closed before they had time to complete the work. The out-of-town teachers who wrote for knight badges are: Mrs. W. H. Horning, Lois Fegley, Louise Genie, Edythe Hirt, M. B. Moore, Edna Rhodes, Mrs. John Byers, Ada Wilson, Lena Singer, Glydis Smith, Grace Peterson and Letitia Woodside, for the Curwensville schools. All these teachers thought the Health Crusade had done a great deal of good; their pupils were neater and cleaner in appearance and they expressed a willingness to take it up again next fall.

In Clearfield the Crusade was organized in the first six grades only. Nearly every pupil enrolled became a page, but the careless ones with careless parents soon dropped out and about 275 reached the rank of 'squire, and most of these went bravely on and were dubbed knights.

Banners were promised to each of the 6 grades in town having the most knights. The Committee is afraid the banners will not arrive in time, but the winning rooms will be published and the names of all the knights in town some time before school closes.

Miss Biery, in her work which has been written up in The Progress from time to time, found in her visits to the schools and homes that the Modern Health Crusade had made its impression especially in the matter of coffee-drinking. One little girl who used to drink 6 cups of coffee a day, has given it up. If she keeps up this sacrifice after the contest is over, surely her life will be the happier for it.

Many mothers have recommended the work highly. Johnny and Betty don't have to be told to wash their hands and clean their teeth, etc. If these habits of cleanliness, neatness, helpfulness and cheerfulness can be made permanent in the lives of our school children, Clearfield will eventually reap the benefit.

STICK TO IT

First of all decide that the job is worth doing.

Second, that you are the person who should do it.

Third, do it.

But you won't do it if you don't stick to it until it is done.

Consider the postage stamp. How far do you suppose it would carry your letter if it dropped off before it reached the mail box?

The postage stamp carried your letter around the world, up to the top floor of the highest office building, to the lowest basement room through crowded city street, or far off into the lone-some desert, all because it sticks.

Next job you tackle consider the postage stamp.

And stick!—Akron Press.

A CHILD STOPPED TO PRAY

(From the Chicago Herald and Examiner)

It occurred at noon within the din and scramble of a cafeteria.

She was about 12 years old. Her comely features were given a studious aspect by the horn rimmed glasses perched upon her nose. Her bobbed black hair was caught up by a blue silk ribbon bow carefully exact.

She carried her tray to a table in the center of the room.

The rattle at the tables went into diminuendo and ceased. Men and women carrying trays gaped with open mouths. Persons seated became rigid with attention. The dining room was hushed.

For the child had clasped her hands before her, bent her head and closed her eyes. Her lips moved for a full minute. She was saying grace.

"There were some in the room who almost blushed," one observer reported. "During the half hour afterwards everyone was quieter. I guess they were thinking—remembering—about along the lines that I was."

A GREAT MEMORIAL DAY

It is fitting indeed, that all the military organizations of the city should unite forces for the observance of the coming Memorial Day.

Our young men are just home from France, where they left many of their comrades asleep in the meadows where the poppies will provide the only floral decorations for their graves this year.

In Flanders, in Italy, in Russia, in Siberia, in Cuba, the Philippines, China and the far-flung battlefields of our own Southland men who wore the American uniform lie buried.

For many years the veterans of the Civil War took upon themselves the duty of seeing that the graves of our hero dead were converted with flowers and decorated with the flag they died to preserve, in recent years being assisted by the men who served in the war with Spain and the Philippine insurrection which followed. Slowly, but surely, time is having its way with the Grand Army, and it is a fine thing, indeed, to note the interest the younger soldiers are taking in the ceremonies incident to Memorial Day.

What memories will be theirs as they scatter flowers over the last resting places of the gallant men who made their own later achievements possible.

Serving The Community

In its history of more than fifty years of service the County National Bank has contributed not a little to the development of the community.

Its financial assistance has been a factor in building up many of the foremost business concerns of the district.

Its helpful service is offered to progressive business men who wish a connection with a strong commercial bank.

COUNTRY MUST REDUCE CREDIT AND SAVE MONEY

WASHINGTON, May 19.—With banking credit of the United States expanded to the extent of $13,000,000,000 and production of vital commodities increased 10 per cent, the country may find itself confronted with a serious situation unless the public is made to realize the necessity for economy of expenditure and demand for banking credit.

This was the keynote of an important statement read by Governor W. G. Harding, of the federal reserve board, at a meeting of the board held yesterday to discuss the financial problems of the nation.

Governor Harding told the members of the board that the continued expansion of credit which has occurred since the flotation of the Victory loan last May, in the face of decreased production of necessities "is one of the most disquieting features of the present financial situation."

Discussing the steady expansion of credit during the period since April, 1919, Governor Harding described the situation as follows:

"From April 1, 1919, to April 1920, the increase in bank loans was approximately 25 per cent, and during the same period the rise in commodity prices was about 26 per cent. Assuming an index number of 100 for the year 1918, for each of the following—live stock, grain, lumber, coal, petroleum, pig iron, steel, cotton, and wool consumed, the average index number for the same articles in 1919 is 129.07. This indicates a falling off of at least ten per cent in the actual output of marketable goods in these important lines. It is this tendency of production to decline, particularly in some essential lines, which constitutes a very unsatisfactory element in the present outlook.

"It is evident that the country cannot continue to advance prices and wages, to curtail production, to expand credit and to attempt to enrich itself by non-productive operations and transaction without fostering discontent and radicalism and that such a course is perilous in will eventually bring on a real crisis."

In pointing to the remedy for this planning situation, Governor Harding stated that the first necessity was to check further expansion of credit, but that this must be effected without shock to industry. "Produce more, save more and consume less," this Governor Harding said, should be the public's motto in dealing with a situation which is rapidly becoming dangerous.

Eat Less Meat If Back Hurts

Take a glass of salts to flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys, and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Why Brunswick Tires Win Preference

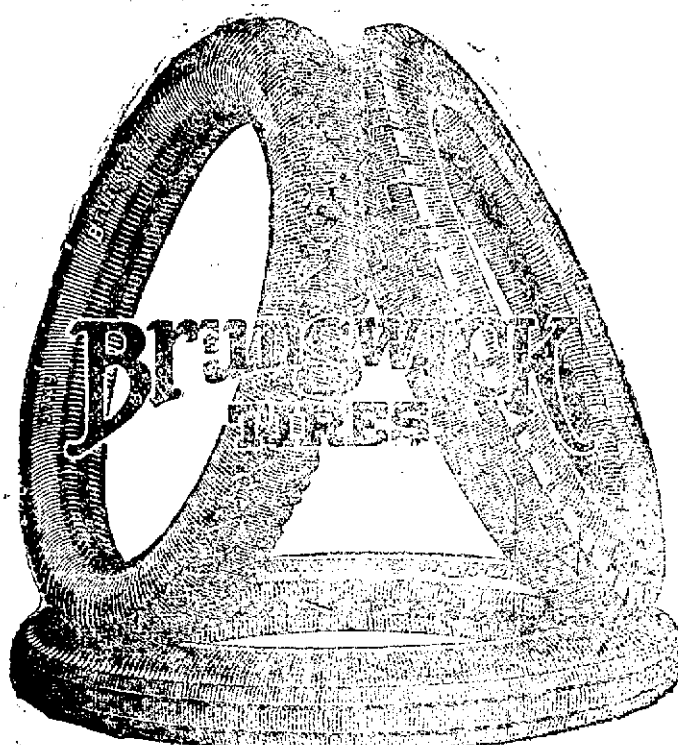

There are two main reasons—one, the name itself, which certifies superior value—the other, that time tells the same story.

Thus reputation and performance unite in giving you all you expect—and more.

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than life-type tires. Many motorists would pay more readily, but the Brunswick idea is to GIVE the utmost, rather than to GET the utmost. And this has been true since 1845. You can appreciate what Brunswick Standards mean by trying ONE Brunswick Tire. It will be a revelation. You'll agree that you could not buy a better, regardless of price.

And, like other motorists, you'll decide to have ALL Brunswicks. Then you'll know supreme satisfaction from your tires—longer life, minimum trouble, lower cost.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

The mite box of the ladies adult bible class has been stolen from its receptacle in the church. The box contained quite a sum of money. The sneak or sneaks who confiscated the box evidently knew just exactly where to look for the box. This is the second time that the mite box of this class has been stolen from the church.

Mrs. Daniel Schorr has received the announcement of the death of one of her sisters, which occurred at her residence in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently.

John Kelly, while out gunning for crows the other day captured a young owl which he has had on exhibition at his pool room. It is a friendly little fellow and allows itself to be handled by any and everybody.

A ball team will go from Curwensville next Friday to State College and contest in a friendly game with a club from that town of learning.

About twenty-five men from this place were taken by auto to Curry Run on Monday night to fight a fire which had been started and was raging in close proximity to timber owned by the Greenwood Lumber Company, composed principally of Curwensville men. After several hours of hard work to get the fire under control, a heavy downpour of rain came, which greatly assisted the tired workers in putting out the fire. Mr. Wolf informed the writer last evening that very little, if any damage, was done to the standing timber owned by the company and that it was very fortunate that the heavy shower of rain came at the time it did.

An attempt was made, probably last Saturday evening, to enter the Mrs. A. E. Patton home for the purpose of robbery. Entrance to the cellar was gained through a coal hole. An effort was next made to force open a door at the head of the cellar stairs to gain admittance to the first floor. The door knob was broken off and other damage done, but the door did not yield. The work was clumsily executed and looked like the work of a novice, probably some half grown boys.

The Curwensville Building and Loan association held its annual monthly session last evening in the office of Squire John A. Dale. Considerable business of a financial nature was transacted.

Several parties were in town yesterday going from house to house offering eggs at 50 cents per dozen, not knowing that the price for a week past was 45 and 46 cents per dozen.

Yesterday's primary election did not create much of a stir in this borough among the voters. About one-half of the regular vote in each ward was polled, while an unusually light vote was out in this end of Pike township. Very little interest was manifested in any of the candidates outside of the county, and no real enthusiasm was noticeable as to whether that "million dollar bond issue" carried or not. The general election in November to make their choice, arguing that by not attending the primary and not assisting by their vote in nominating a candidate they are not duty bound to support his candidacy at the general election. At this writing we are unable to give the vote as cast, as the election boards are not through counting off, as this letter goes to the mail.

START TOMORROW AND KEEP IT UP EVERY MORNING

Get into the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles according to hot water enthusiasts.

These are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Gray, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur, but what is the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at drug stores here. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has happened. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it; Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, have a surprise awaiting them, because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful. This is the age of youth, gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and the folks using it are enthusiastic. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The House of Whispers

By William Johnston Illustrations by Irwin Myers

had given him clues enough as to where to look for the plotter. I realized that it would be useless to question him further. He would admit suspecting no one until he was sure of their guilt, a quality I admired greatly.

"You can count on me," I repeated. "I'll be here at three tomorrow."

Yet how foolish it was for any of us to predict what we will be doing or where we will be twenty-four hours from now. So often do things happen in the routine of our lives as we had anticipated. I was not there the next day at the time appointed. By no possibility could I have been there, however much I might have wished to. Many things had happened in quick succession.

How it came about that my promise to meet Gordon was unfulfilled can best be explained by narrating the events of the evening after I returned to the Grand hotel. It was nearly five when I left the detective. I strolled leisurely down town and had dinner in the cafe where on one occasion I had seen the scar-faced man. I lingered there for a long time over my coffee hoping in vain that he might appear. I even ventured to cautiously question the waiter and head waiter, describing the man as best I could, but both of them insisted that they never had seen any such person. As I walked home I kept a wary eye out to make sure I was not being followed, but apparently no one was now shadowing me.

It was midnight when I reached home. It had been arranged that Barbara should have called me at my room waiting for the time to come. I was reviewing the case in all its aspects. Indeed there was hardly a waking moment that I was not thinking of the many mysteries about us. I was wondering if, when the case was cleared up, the mysterious whispers that we all had heard would also be explained. I recalled Claire Bradford's unexpected visit to my apartment the evening before and her confusion when I had captured her. I wondered if the explanations she had offered had been the truth. Was she really trying to locate the source of the whispers? I looked interestedly up at the section of the wall that I had found her inspecting. What had she hoped to discover there?

I decided to make a close inspection of both sides of the wall. As I lighted up the sitting room and hall for this purpose, something unusual came to my notice that had hitherto escaped my entirely.

THE INNER WALL OF MY ROOM—the one running along the hall of the apartment—HAD THE APPEARANCE OF BEING AT LEAST FOUR FEET THICK.

It seemed so absurd that I refused to believe the evidence my eyes had given me. In these modern days of steel construction there was no reason for a wall being of medieval proportions. I sprang to my grandfather's work basket and began rummaging to see if I could find a tape measure, and luckily my search was quickly rewarded.

I sketched a rough diagram of the rear rooms, and began measuring them off, carefully checking my figures as I went along. I found myself growing wildly excited as the tape measure confirmed what my eyes already had told me. The inner wall was at least four feet thick.

With this in the thought of the possibility of a secret passageway, I climbed up on a chair just as Claire Bradford had done, and began inspecting the wall inch by inch. Even as I did so I could not help laughing at myself. The idea that a modern apartment building might contain a secret passageway was utterly ridiculous, yet as I pounded lightly on the wall it gave forth a hollow sound, vastly different from any other part of the room. I was convinced that between my room and the hall there was space enough at least for a passageway in which a man might walk.

I succeeded with growing interest in the wooden paneling that in my room ran clear up to the ceiling. In the other rooms there was no paneling. Mounting the chair again I pressed sharply against the wood as the point from which the sound had seemed to come. It seemed to me that the sections I touched I struck back a full half-inch, leaving what looked like a doorway a space three feet wide by five feet high. The bottom of the opening was hardly two feet from the floor. It there was a passageway floor, this panel certainly would explain how my rooms had been surreptitiously visited.

Ever so slowly I worked at the panel trying to push it further back. If there was a passageway there in the wall I was determined to see whether it led. My efforts to move the panel further seemed hopeless. As I worked at it I heard a tapping on my window sill.

It must be Barbara. In my excitement over the find I had forgotten all about the time. I sprang from my chair and rushed to the window. I found her peering out, trying to ascertain why I had not answered her signal.

"Oh," she breathed with relief, as my head appeared. "You were there. Did you see the detective?"

"Yes," I replied, speaking as low as my excited state would permit me. "Just now I discovered something vastly more important."

"What is it?"

"A secret passageway leading into my room. It seems to run along the hall. The wall there is at least four feet thick—room for a man to walk. There is a panel in the wall in my room leading into it. I was just trying it open when you signaled."

"Oh, how I wish I could see it!"

"Why can't you? Slip out of your front door, and I'll be at my door to admit you."

"I can't do that. Mother and Claire are in the front part of the house playing bridge with some guests. They will be sure to hear me going out."

"Come in tomorrow morning, then," I suggested.

She did not answer, and before I realized what she was doing, Barbara had disappeared.

Washington's Ice Melted. George Washington put up ice. In January, 1775, his diary showed he filled a dry well under a summer house and another well in a cellar. Under date of June 5 he wrote in his diary: "Opened the well in my cellar in which I had laid up a store of ice, but there was not the smallest particle remaining. I then opened the other repository, in which I found a large store."

A traveler on a walking tour in one of the northern counties came across a solitary old man who, seated in the doorway of his cottage, was fiddling away quite regardless of such trifling conventionalities as time and tune. The traveler listened a while in amusement and then inquired casually: "When do you tune your violin?" The reply came with refreshing ingenuousness: "I don't tune it—it don't sound right if I do."

The art of not hearing should be learnt by all. It is fully as important to domestic happiness as a cultivated ear, for which both money and time are expended. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate system. It is an invigorating temperance tonic and is prescribed for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of women. It can be procured in liquid or tablets at any drug store.

READING, PA.—"Last summer I became a nervous wreck. I had suffered a great deal at times and finally I lost all ambition to do even my own housework, and I could not rest at all at night. The doctor advised an operation, but I was saved that by my neighbor who advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. I was strengthened and relieved almost at once and my improvement was so noticeable that my husband urged me to take another bottle. I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription; it has not only saved me from the operating table but my health has been benefited in every way. I no longer suffer and my nerves are now in perfect condition; thanks to this good medicine."—MRS. MARIE BRAUN, No. 1247 Buttonwood Street.

OFFICER 666 WAS FINE SHOW SAYS CLEARFIELDERS

Charles B. Chin, the local producer and his cast, put on "Officer 666" last evening at the Driggs Theatre before a small but very appreciative audience.

From criticism to criticism the production was one of the best that has been attempted by local theatre groups in a long time and was only of a far better nature than greeted it.

The cast members were well chosen and the actors would have done credit to professionals.

"Officer 666" will be repeated on Monday and it is said to have a good chance for a second showing in the Clearfield theatre.

Absolutely All Taste Is Taken From Castor Oil

Wonderful New Process. Robs. Old Reliable Family Remedy of Disagreeable Taste

The chemist of Sperry, Kellogg & Son, Inc. one of the largest manufacturers of castor oil in the world have perfected a new and reliable process by which the taste is ABSOLUTELY removed from castor oil. In the opinion of physicians and druggists who are familiar with KILLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL, this is a remarkable improvement in a real blessing to the one who is obliged to take it. It is the same old-fashioned castor oil that every physician prescribes for his patients, but it is now a household name. It has been ABSOLUTELY eliminated today. You can take KILLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL easily, for it is a SWEET TASTELESS. Children take it without crying or fussing. Do not accept substitutes, you want a REAL TASTELESS CASTOR OIL. Two sizes, 5c and 10c. At all drug stores.

Anchor Day. Anchor day was observed by T. Sterling Morton in Nebraska January 4, 1922. The day was first observed in Missouri in 1883 when the legislature passed a law fixing the first Friday after the first of May in April as a day when the school children in the country should be released.

Daily Thought. The solitary side of our nature demands isolation for reflection upon subjects which the dash and whirl of daily business so long and so close rest that about it. Find the method to fashion itself—find it.

For Sour Stomach. Bloating, Gas, Coated Tongue, Sick Headache, Bad Breath, Bile, Indigestion or Constipation—take FOLEY CATHARTIC TABLETS.

They cleanse the bowels, sweeten the stomach and invigorate the liver. Do not grip or sicken.

The Expensive Columbus. The discovery of America cost a little more than $7000. It cost so say some documents that were found in the archives of Genoa. These documents give the value of Columbus' first fleet as $1000. The great admiral was paid a salary of $200 a year, the two captains who accompanied him received a salary of $500 each and the members of the crew were paid at the rate of $250 a month each.

Equip Your Smaller Car With Goodyear Tires

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or any other car using 30x3, 30x3½, or 31x4-inch tires, you can well take advantage of the high relative value built into all Goodyear Tires.

You can well do so because you can secure in the smaller Goodyear Tires the results of such skill and care as have made Goodyear Tires the preferred equipment on the highest priced automobiles of the day.

You can well do so because these smaller Goodyear Tires are easy to obtain, being produced at the rate of approximately 20,000 a day, and because their first cost usually is as low or lower than that of other tires in the same types and sizes.

Go to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for these tires, and for Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes. He supplies many other local owners of the smaller cars.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread..... $23.50
30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread..... $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good riding with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in workshop..... $4.50 bag

Australia's Rainfall.

A committee of the British Association for the Advancement of Science has recently collected samples of rainfall during a period of one year, at 10 stations scattered over the continent of Australia, and examined them quantitatively to determine their content of nitric and nitrous nitrogen. About 1,000 samples were examined and the results were compared with the records of the weather conditions under which the rainfall occurred. The general conclusions are that, for a given type of weather, the concentration of oxidized nitrogen in the rainfall varies inversely as the amount of rainfall, and that the total amount of oxidized nitrogen in a unit area found in the rainfall accompanying a storm depends upon the type of weather and is practically independent of the amount of rainfall, and that the total amount of oxidized nitrogen in a unit area found in the rainfall accompanying a storm depends upon the type of weather and is practically independent of the amount of rainfall. The highest total amounts of oxidized nitrogen were found at southern and inland stations in rain water resulting from monsoonal storms following a heat wave.—Scientific American.

"Shun-Pike."

Not all dictionaries contain the word "shun-pike," but it was in common use in this country a century ago and throws an amusing light on the character of some of our thrifty ancestors. A "shun-pike" was a short byroad that left a turnpike on one side of a tollgate and joined it again on the other.—Youth's Companion.

See Beauty in Long Neck.

The aim of every woman of the Burmese tribe of Padung is to elongate the neck as much as possible, and to effect this a female child has a brass wire fitted around her neck, to which additional rings are added as the years go by until she is fifteen years of age, when she is valued by the length of her collar and purchased as a wife. Girls with necks over a foot long are not common.

Positive Proof.

Landlady—"That new boarder doesn't talk about himself, does he?" Housemaid—"No." Landlady—"Wonder if he's married?" Housemaid—"Sure he is." Landlady—"How do you know?" Housemaid—"He only uses one hook in the wardrobe in his room."

Wheeling a Lion.

Lions are not tempted, like other animals, to strict obedience to their trainer's commands by the offer of tuncious foods. Practically every animal but the lion is taught to do what is wanted by giving it a reward every time it does it or makes an effort to, either a lump of sugar or a vegetable or a bit of fish or some other thing of which it is fond. This is impossible with the lion, as it eats only meat and is only allowed a certain amount of that. This increases the difficulty of the lion tamer.

Usual Result.

"So they are going to probe the situation. What will happen then?" "Then you'll know for certain there is nothing to be done about it."

Heavy Blankets Washed the Sudsy Way

Housecleaning time calls for fresh, sudsy baths for all the winter bedding, so that it may be sweetly packed away.

But are you going to try this season to do up all those heavy, woolen blankets yourself—when you can be relieved of this really fatiguing work by having us do them for you in our cleanly, laundry way?

We wash your blankets, cotton and woolen, in the foamiest of billowy suds and pure, soft water, at just the right temperature. This gentle treatment gives them a rich, velvety feeling, and preserves the nap in its original fleecy condition.

After thorough rinsing we dry your blankets in currents of pure, warm air, as hygienic as a sun bath—pure air that restores to them all their fine and downy quality.

You can send us your woolen blankets and eiderdown quilts with perfect confidence. Telephone, and our driver will call.

THE ATLANTIC REFINING COMPANY

CARPENTIER IS NOT MASTER OF OWN HOUSEHOLD

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, May 12.—"Chorge-CHORGE."

"Oui, oui, un minot, m'cher."
"Un minot, no no, too sweet."
Thus cracks the domestic whip over Georges Carpentier.

Maybe the handsome Georges is the heavyweight champion of Europe, maybe he did give Joe Beckett passports to the Land of Nod in one punch, maybe he has enough stuff to rock the throne of Dempsey—nevertheless, he's second in his own house.

The beautiful young Georgette, his bride of a little over a month, who hasn't one-third the size of her illustrious spouse, rules the household.

"George, he used to be his own boss but the madame—she even tells him what to wear," Leon Wilson, his trainer, masseur, valet and interpreter, was saying as he selected the outfit for the day from the closet containing fifteen suits of clothes, twelve pairs of shoes, a dozen hats, twenty-five silk shirts and a few other things.

"It is not the proper wear for afternoon, but since the madame—" in a sort of soliloquy he mused.

"What does George do with all those clothes?" asked one of the newspaper men decorating the upholstery in the elaborately appointed hotel apartment of the French gods of Fisticuffs.

"He wears them," a perfectly obvious answer that caused a slight chuckle at the London joke.

"You see it is like this," unimpressed of the interruption, "George he makes at least three changes a day, sometimes more, so it takes a big wardrobe."

"I used to lay out Georges clothes, but since he's married—" The door opened and in walked Georges himself forcing his attendant to cease unburdening him of the "bitter fruit" that Hyman had dished out for him.

Descamps then bowed suavely in from another door and began an illustrated lecture in frenzied English, English French and doubtless slang on why Willie Meehan, twice the victor over Jack Dempsey, would not last two ticks of a double-time watch against Georges.

Georges seconded every motion and "corrected" the technique of the illustrations several times, otherwise enjoying the performance immensely.

When it comes to "talking shop," Georges and his astute manager can "compree Amerikyan verree gude." They were all attention while one of the scribes was countering with an argument that Willie Meehan against Dempsey was the best exemplification of the old tradition that "accidents will happen."

The door on the other side of the room opened and in front of a gust of the most effectual perfume, in swept the young madame.

What transpired is best related in regular talk for the lady of the house knows only two batches of English—"How you do?" and "Goo By."

"George," she said with a coo and a coy smile.

Georges didn't register interest.

"George—George—GEORGE," she went on with an increasing crescendo that ended in a bang of vocal thunder and a staccato of tiny feet pounded on the floor.

"Oh yes, yes, my dear, in a minute," merely turning to her.

"One minute nothing," she must have been saying. "How do you get that way? When I call you, hop to it!"

And Georges hopped and trailed her into the room.

The witnesses exchanged significant glances. Descamps stopped with his arm upraised where it was about to illustrate a punch that would knock 70 pounds off Willie Meehan. Wilson shrugged his shoulders with an air of "oh hell" and the scribes tried to figure it out.

"He may pull off that lamb stuff in public but when he gets her in there I bet he tells her a few things," one of the pen pushers reasoned.

"Don't you ever think it," Wilson said, flicking a speck of dust off a new derby.

"The taxi's waitin' for Mr. and Mrs. Carpentier," the bell boy announced from the hall. The trio departed.

That gave Wilson another chance.

"The madame doesn't like boxing," he said as he smoothed a hint of a wrinkle in a heavy silk cravat. "By the way they're saying a lot of things about the madame that aren't so—"

"What's that?" both scribes at once.

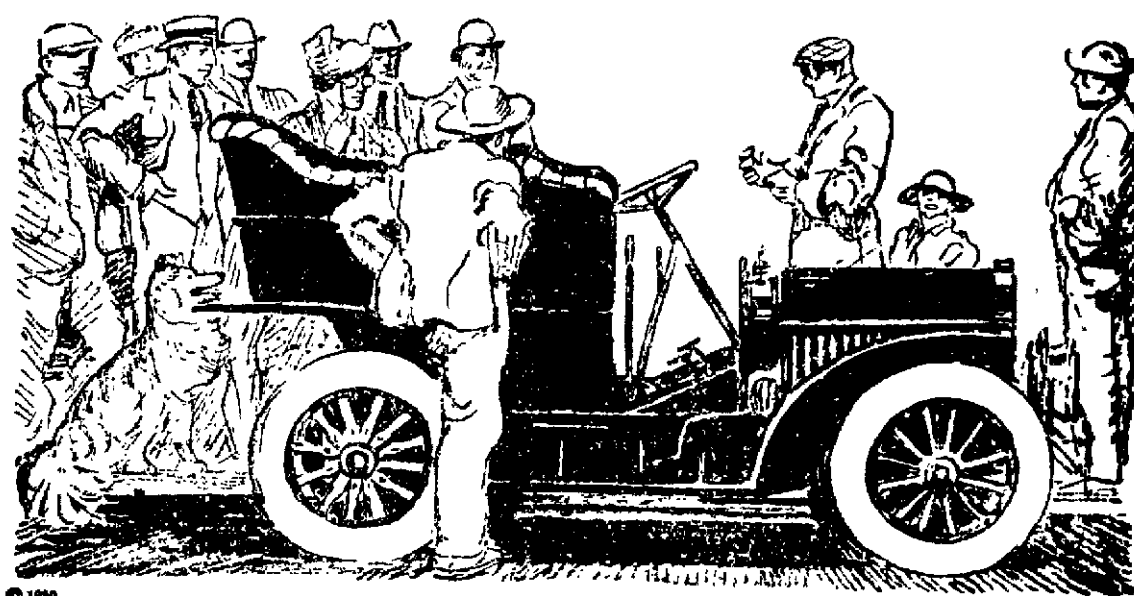

"Well, it wasn't a childhood romance and it wasn't a war romance and it wasn't a cabaret romance. George met the madame about eighteen months ago. She was a nice girl. She never sang or danced in a show. George never hung around that kind of girls. He could have if he wanted to. Lots of the girls in Paris wrote to him, they tried to kiss him and lots of 'em wanted to marry him. But he wasn't after that kind."

"Isn't the madame more than seventeen years old, Wilson?"

"I don't know. Someone told her the American girls keep their age a secret. But, as I was saying the madame won't go to see him box. She doesn't like the game."

"But she said coming up on the boat that she didn't object to her husband's profession and that he could fight if he wanted to," one of the scribes interrupted.

"Yes, oh yes, that's alright. You heard George say he would retire after the Dempsey fight," Wilson said with emphasis. "That doesn't mean that he doesn't want to fight any more. If the madame doesn't want

They used to call a man a "sport" when he bought an automobile

THAT was before the days when pretty nearly everybody owned one—or could, if he wanted to.

There was a lot of waste about motoring in those days. A man spent a lot of money on his car and never thought very much about what he was getting in return.

When a man buys a tire nowadays he has a pretty definite idea of what he expects to get out of it.

The dealer who sells him one that gives him less than he expects isn't likely to get any more of his business.

That's one of the reasons why we handle U. S. Tires—and recommend them to the motorists of this community.

The U. S. reputation for quality is not built on any one tire.

There is not one standard for large U. S. Tires and another standard for small ones.

Every tire that bears the name "U. S." is built the best way its makers know how to build it. The oldest and largest rubber concern in the world cannot afford to play favorites in seeking its public.

Come in and tell us what you are looking for in tires.

We can probably tell you whether you need a U. S. Nobby, Chain, Usco, Plain, or a Royal Cord.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

ROYAL CORD—HOBBY CHAIN—USCO—PLAIN

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Florida's Big Spring.
What is the largest spring in the world? Florida has one which must be near the head of the list. This is called Wakulla spring. It is 400 feet across, is 80 feet deep and flows at the rate of 120,000 gallons of water every minute. It gives rise to a river 250 feet wide at its source. This mammoth spring is situated about fifteen miles from Tallahassee.

Concerning Hobbies.
It is well to have a hobby, says the New York Mail and Journal. It is well to have a hobby which can be used as a faithful servant. It is well to have a hobby as long as you can ride it, but when it begins to ride you it is better to look about for another steed.

MOLLIE

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

"David," said Eleanor, "I warn you, do not propose to me again. It's getting to be the habit with you, and I am at the end of my patience. You know very well that I do not love you; if I did, I would have married you long ago. Frankly, you are not a lovable man, David, or rather, you are too humble to inspire deep admiration. Women do not wish to be 'unreasonably' adored, David. I tell you this for your own good. They admire independence in a man, it wins respect. Now, David, haven't you adored me 'unreasonably?' No matter how I have treated you, and I admit that my whims have been inexcusable—you have promptly forgiven them all, David, and such devotion is tiresome. Please stop it. Devote your mind to your work—and forget me."

Eleanor's black eyes gazed up at her patient lover relentlessly. She nodded to him without a softening smile, and bent determinedly over her desk. David sighed and turned slowly to cross the floor to where his own desk stood. He reflected, as he fell into his easy chair, that Eleanor was right. No woman respects a man's utter self-abnegation. But it had been impossible to give anything save entire devotion to Eleanor, from the moment she had first entered the office employ years ago and the vision of her there had filled his honest heart with daily joy. David had been a methodical plodder until the time of her coming; since then his hopeful dreams had fled him with a new and successful ambition, and he had risen rapidly in his place. Eleanor had accepted his attentions, the little pleasures he delighted to give her until David asked her to marry him. Eleanor did not wish to marry David. She told him so and was aggrieved that he should thus bring their friendship to a close. The dark-eyed, witching little creature had long cherished an ideal of the one who must masterfully win her heart. A dominating, yet tenderly winning prince, who, all unheeding of various other admiring maidens, would come to her and claim her.

David, bending patiently over his work, his wistful, gray eyes turned often in silent appeal toward her—David had no part in this picture. He would not, he told himself, wearily, annoy Eleanor again with his protestations, and he looked up absently at a young girl who stood before him. She was the new stenographer, he remembered, awaiting his orders. So David proceeded to give them. The girl lingered for a moment, copy book in hand, her wide blue eyes full of unspoken sympathy. Uncomfortably David realized that she, as well as the rest of the office force, was aware of his secret and hopeless affection.

During days which followed, Mollie, the new girl, was often at David's side. She formed a habit of leaving a fresh flower or two on his desk, or of staying after hours, unasked, to help him with an accumulation of work. David liked the girl. There was something so unaffectedly boyish about her. A clumsy, yet wholly respectful attendance which charmed Mollie's sincere admiration for David became an office watchword.

"If old Dave says so, it's all right," her companions would joke.

Mollie unmoved and smiling continued her allegiance.

"He is so wonderful," the new girl ingenuously confided to Eleanor, "full of quiet power like the great men who do things in movies."

"David!" Eleanor exclaimed, "David like that!"

"And his hair," Mollie went on dreamily, "don't you love the way it sort of whitens at the sides, and the look in his gray eyes as if he'd suffered and all, and borne it."

Eleanor turned to look unbelievably in the girl's pretty rose flushed face.

"Mollie," she said slowly, "Mollie, it cannot be that you are falling in love with David Morse."

The girl tossed her head. "Why not?" she asked defiantly.

Eleanor was unusually thoughtful during the remainder of the day. She looked askance at the little stenographer when upon the following morning she placed a single carnation upon David's desk. And when David, true to his new determination, was about to pass Eleanor at closing time without a word of good-by, she arose suddenly and came with proffered hands toward him.

"David," murmured Eleanor, her confidence charmed him. "David, would you like to walk home with me tonight, I—I have missed you so."

"Like!" cried David joyously. And clasped closely the proffered hands.

"Well, Lady Eleanor's got her David back again," taunted one of Mollie's companions.

The little stenographer smiled sagely.

"All she needed was a jolt," she said.

Unlucky Simile.

"I am as innocent as a child of the charge of stealing that there hog, cap," protested an acquaintance.

"Well," replied "Cap" Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "as I've got 14 children and am totally well educated in the possibilities and probabilities of the little cusses, I'll just say that your denial don't fetch you nuth'n with me."—Kansas City Star.

NEPONSET ROOFS

Quality on Top

Your roof should be handsome, durable, fire-resisting, and economical. All these qualities are combined in the famous Neponset Twin Shingle—the roofing development of the 20th century.

Neponset Twin Shingles will not rot, dry out, peel off, break, or blow away. They are fire-safe. Easily, quickly handled. Save one-third the labor over ordinary shingles and require a third less nails. They are the only twin shingles—two shingles in one and self-spacing. Slate-surfaced. Two colors—red and green.

Come in and let us tell you more about this shingle that is the most economical artistic roofing, considering first cost, ease of laying, and years of service.

Great Reductions In Clothing Prices

General reduction of prices in merchandise, especially clothing, was reported today throughout the country. Merchandise in many large cities was cut from 20 to 50 per cent. Newspapers in New York City were filled with ads. The reason given for the reduction was a "slow" spring season with people buying small and leaving merchants with stocked up shelves. The tight money market also was to blame. Congestion of freight movement due to lack of cars and the railroad strike prevented proper distribution of merchandise. Food has not been generally included in the downward trend. Grocers in some sections declare a decrease can be expected soon. Prices have been cut throughout all the middle west cities with the exception of Detroit and Cleveland.

NEW YORK, May 19—Prices are on the toboggan, according to the opinion of leading merchants and business men today. Cutting of prices from 15 to 30 per cent. on all lines of merchandise by many stores is indicative of the break, they agreed. The drop was due to a general slump of public buying and tight money conditions in the opinion of financial leaders.

U. S. WILL REFUSE RECOGNITION TO REBELS IF VILLA IS GIVEN POST

WASHINGTON, May 19—The proposed appointment of Pancho Villa as chief of the Mexican constabulary might cause President Wilson to withhold recognition of the new government it was learned today. Villa is held responsible by the United States for the raid on Columbus, N. M., in 1916.

NEW IRISH POLICY EVIDENT

LONDON, May 19—The government's new Irish policy formulated in the recent Downing street conference here was beginning to be more apparent today. In the future, according to information here, no offenders will be jailed or suspects be held until evidence is obtained. Numerous military posts are being established throughout the island. Flying columns of infantry supported by armored cars are being held in reserve to swoop down on terrorist meetings in an effort to catch the offenders red handed.

CONGRESS WILL RECESS JUNE 4th

WASHINGTON, May 19—June 4th will probably be the date set for the Congressional recess or adjournment. It has not yet been definitely decided whether a sine die adjournment will be taken or merely a recess. If they adjourn on June 4th it will give those members who desire to go to the Republican national convention at Chicago on Tuesday time in which to make the trip.

ONLY ONE MORE DAY TO DO YOUR BIT FOR SALVATIONISTS

The Clearfield drive for the Salvation Army Home Service fund will close tomorrow and the local committee in charge is anxious to make a good showing and close the books with the full quota subscribed. Therefore all persons who have not already done so should see one of the solicitors and make his or her contribution.

The Salvation Army home service is too well known by everybody to need encomium or comment at our hands and as funds are badly needed for the proper development of the army's activities along charitable and character building lines nobody should hesitate one moment over contributing.

The army's activities are strictly non-denominational. Every man and every creed looks alike to the Salvation Army worker and none should hesitate to contribute on racial or creedal grounds.

Clearfield people have always responded nobly to all similar charitable appeals and should not be lacking in this important campaign. Make your contribution, resting ac-sure the money will be utilized in the alleviation of suffering and distress and to the very best advantage.

If you cannot find one of the soliciting committee, give your name and the amount of your contribution to Captain or Mrs. Raub and when the drive closes tomorrow evening you can rest content in the thought of having complied with a public Christian duty.

JONES WINS FOR CONGRESS BY 500; BOAL AND SCOTT LIKELY DELEGATES

DEHASS, PHILLIPS AND MILLER AHEAD
FOR LEGISLATURE WITH PIDGEON
A VERY CLOSE FOURTH

GILLETTE MADE A FINE SHOWING

On the basis of late returns from all sections this afternoon it appears that Congressman Jones will win over Geo. Minns, Jr., by from 500 to 600. Jones lost Clearfield county but his home county will give him a vote of from 1100 to 1300 over his opponent.

For the legislature DeHass, Phillips and Miller are generally conceded to have won the coveted places.

By far the greatest contest was staged for delegate to the national convention. Major Boal will undoubtedly win first place and H. B. Scott of Philipsburg, on the face of late returns will win over Gillette by four or five hundred.

Following are the returns received up to noon, and embrace the figures for 84 of the 97 districts in the county:

Congress.
Evan J. Jones	1498
George Minns	2091

Legislature.
DeHass	1875
Phillips	1364
Miller	1738
Pidgeon	1637
Buchanan	1333
Reay	1265

District Delegates to National Convention.
Boal	1333
Booze	1298
Scott	1146
Donaldson	1072
Gillette	919
Gaffney	638

Centre County District Delegate
Boal	1737
Scott	1496
Gillette	814

Congress.
Jones	1488
Minns	1304

Legislature.
Beaver	1635
Harvey	1394

State Committee
Guffey	713
Bonnivell	959
Gingery	1010
Guppy	598

On the Democratic side the vote from 82 of the 97 precincts tabulated up to noon stood:

For National Committee.

Guffey 713

Bonnivell 959

Gingery 1010

Guppy 598

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

There was no opposition on the district or local Democratic tickets, the nominees being:

Congress.

J. D. Connelly, of Clearfield.

District Delegates.

J. Frank Snyder, Clearfield.

J. L. Spangler, Bellefonte.

Legislature.

G. W. Bell, Bellefonte.

R. H. Lucas, Clearfield.

John P. Rogers, DuBois.

Yesterday's primary election brought out about one-third of the vote in Clearfield county and will go down in history as about the poorest attended Presidential primary election in the history of the game. The ballot was a sockdolager to count and there was an exasperating delay in getting the returns last night and today.

No attention whatever was paid to the vote for the State-wide candidates on either the Republican or Democratic tickets, although the State Organization State for State Officers and Delegates at Large went through on the Republican ticket.

Judge Sylvester Sadler, of Carlisle, is leading Judge Kunkel of Dauphin county, for the Supreme Court Judgeship by a slight margin.

On the Democratic side the Palmer-McCormick crowd carried the county for Joseph E. Guffey, of Pittsburg, for National Committeeman over Judge Bonnivell, of Philadelphia, while Don Gingery, of Clearfield, was elected member of the State Committee from Clearfield county over D. D. Guppy, also of Clearfield, the anti-Palmer candidate.

Major John A. Farrell, of Chester, the anti-Palmer candidate for United States Senator, easily carried the county over Democratic State Chairman Rupp, the Palmer candidate.

REMARKABLY LIGHT VOTE POLLED THROUGHOUT THE COUNTY

Yesterday's primary election showed the lightest vote cast in Clearfield county at a primary in years. The lack of votes or interest in the county districts was charged to the desire of the farmer to make up for lost time due to the very backward spring, the prudent husbandman in large numbers preferring to remain on the farm planting corn and sowing oats rather than to take time off to go to the polls to vote.

The small vote was appreciated alone by the different election officers, members of which had the time of their lives attempting to count the small vote cast. Owing to the fact of its being a presidential primary with its consequent large list of candidates for delegates to the national convention, etc., entailed a burden on the election boards which completely swamped a lot of them. As a natural consequence the returns were slower in coming in than at any time in recent political history. The little town of Wallacetown, always first to be heard from, did not get its handful of votes counted and reported until 9 o'clock.

The County Commissioners office was kept open for receiving returns, but up until 3:30 o'clock, when the last of the hard-boiled election figure hounds "gave up the ghost" and sought their trundle beds, but 14 of the 97 precincts in the county had been heard from, and as these were largely located in the DuBois end of the county and of course favored their local candidates, the dopesters were unable to figure the approximate result and the fellow who stayed up to see it through had little edge on the wisecracker who sought his bed and got his regular eight-hour sleep.

In Clearfield borough only about nine hundred votes were polled, the totals for the different candidates being as follows:

YOUNGSTOWN GIRL

M. V. Buzard, son of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Buzard, of Mun-on, who has for some time been located at Warren, Ohio, recently took to himself a charming young bride in the person of Miss Cora Matthews, of Youngstown, Ohio. The happy couple have taken up house-keeping at Warren, where the groom is successfully engaged in business. He was formerly one of Clearfield county's most popular and successful school teachers, and has many friends who will be glad to speak for him and his young bride a happy and prosperous wedded life.

ELECTION RESULTS INTERESTING AT CITY OF DUBOIS

DuBois, May 19—Although the weather was just right for an election yesterday the voting was very light but considerable interest was stirred up through the day as a result of the spirited delegate fight. Because of the size of the ballot and the various bond issues that were voted election boards had their trouble and the returns were unusually slow in coming in. It was not until after 2 o'clock that the final figures for the city were received and then they were not complete. The voting in a sense was rather peculiar candidates showing unusual strength in some wards and being woefully weak in others.

One of the very gratifying features of the day's battle at the polls was the fact that the city bond issue carried by a large majority, the verdict being 3 to 1 in favor of the issuance of the bonds for the purpose of buying fire equipment. This city also gave the county bond issue a good majority, the figures being almost three to one in favor of the bonds.

For Assembly two of the home candidates, Buchanan and Reay, stood high, while DeHass captured the third position.

The delegate fight proved to be a good one and Booz emerged at the head of the list, Donaldson running second and Scott third.

The tabulated vote is as follows:

PHYSICAL TRAINING
ADDED TO COURSE OF DUBOIS SCHOOL

Physical training of a more or less degree for all public school pupils of DuBois is to be added to the school curriculum for the next term, as the result of action taken by the board of school directors.

City Superintendent T. T. Allen outlined plans for providing a physical instructor in making up his budget and the budget was adopted as recommended. The new department will provide physical training for all students. The fine gymnasium at the High School will be used daily for the High School students, where the supervisor of physical training will be located and have charge of the classes. Training for the students of the grades will be provided indirectly, the various teachers taking the training from the supervisor and passing it on to the students under them. The development of the various basketball, football and other athletic team will be one feature of the training, the supervisor to act as coach for the various teams.

Mrs. Paul Stauffer entertained at a bridge and sewing party this afternoon at her home on Locust street. Four tables of bridge were in play.

Mrs. George Johnson and son Arden are spending a few days in Pittsburgh.

Miss Jane Smith, of Akron, Ohio, is visiting at home and friends here.

ROAD BOND ISSUE PASSES

Clearfield County voters approved of the proposition of bonding the county for One Million Dollars to build good roads by a two to one majority.

First Move Made To Correct Rail Defect

WASHINGTON, May 18—The Inter-State Commerce Commission today made its first move to break the serious congestion on the railroads, caused by the nation-wide car shortage and to some extent by continuance of the so-called "outlaw" switchmen and yardmen strike.

In issuing orders today for a heavy movement of box cars from the east to the middle west and northwest sections, the commission indicated that a much more comprehensive plan of relieving the congestion will be put into effect within the next day or two.

The movement of cars to the grange sections, it was explained, was only the initial step. It will be followed by sweeping regulations governing priority of shipment of necessities and other measures calculated to remedy the situation.

At a meeting with the railroad executives scheduled for tomorrow, the commission expects to complete final arrangements for increasing the efficiency of the roads through centralization of control and a possible pooling of equipment.

Following an all-day session, in which the car shortage problem and the almost universal congestion of the roads were the sole topics of discussion, the commission issued a formal statement. It said in part:

"The movement of empty box cars suitable for transportation of grain continues in large volume from New England and Atlantic seaboard states to the grange regions of the Central and Northwest. These cars are being moved in solid trainloads under expedited orders, and their movement is now being watched continually to avoid any preventable delay in getting the equipment to the railroads where it is most needed.

"Simultaneously there is a movement in the reverse direction of trainloads of empty open-top cars, suitable for coal loading, from the Middle west to the coal producing sections of the east and southeast. This movement will be continued until a more proper balance of these classes of equipment is obtained, and should result in considerable relief, both by providing foodstuffs and fuel where needed, and by easing the financial strain resulting from the long continued inability to move these commodities."

MODERN HEALTH CRUSADE TAKEN UP IN SCHOOLS

Though it has been given little publicity, the Modern Health Crusade has gone steadily on in our schools and a large number of children throughout the county have been faithful and have attained the high rank of knight, with the silver badge, and a few have become knights' banners, with a gold pin.

175 teachers and about 6,000 pupils in the county were supplied with materials. Most of these reached the rank of page, a large majority received the 'squire's button. A great many country schools closed before they had time to complete the work. The out-of-town teachers who wrote for knight badges are: Mrs. W. H. Horning, Lois Fegley, Louise Genie, Edythe Hirt, M. B. Moore, Edna Rhodes, Mrs. John Byers, Ada Wilson, Lena Singer, Glydis Smith, Grace Peterson and Letitia Woodside, for the Curwensville schools. All these teachers thought the Health Crusade had done a great deal of good; their pupils were neater and cleaner in appearance and they expressed a willingness to take it up again next fall.

In Clearfield the Crusade was organized in the first six grades only. Nearly every pupil enrolled became a page, but the careless ones with careless parents soon dropped out and about 275 reached the rank of 'squire, and most of these went bravely on and were dubbed knights.

Banners were promised to each of the 6 grades in town having the most knights. The Committee is afraid the banners will not arrive in time, but the winning rooms will be published and the names of all the knights in town some time before school closes.

Miss Biery, in her work which has been written up in The Progress from time to time, found in her visits to the schools and homes that the Modern Health Crusade had made its impression especially in the matter of coffee-drinking. One little girl who used to drink 6 cups of coffee a day, has given it up. If she keeps up this sacrifice after the contest is over, surely her life will be the happier for it.

Many mothers have recommended the work highly. Johnny and Betty don't have to be told to wash their hands and clean their teeth, etc. If these habits of cleanliness, neatness, helpfulness and cheerfulness can be made permanent in the lives of our school children, Clearfield will eventually reap the benefit.

NUTRITION CLASS IN PUBLIC SCHOOL IS BEING FORMED

Sixty children have been examined by Dr. Piper for admission to the Children's Nutrition class. Of this number twenty-seven, nearly fifty per cent, were found to have diseased tonsils, most of this number having adenoids also. Since diseased tonsils are among the most common of the physical causes of underweight, it would be impossible to help such children to make a rapid gain in weight until the physical handicap has been removed.

For this reason, the children selected for the class are those who have no such physical handicap and yet are underweight. With those children it will be mainly a question of encouraging proper habit of eating and rest. However, several children with diseased tonsils have been included in the class, because their parents intend to have the tonsils attended to as soon as school closes. If there are other mothers to whom diseased tonsils have been reported who intend to have the tonsils removed soon, they may secure the children's admission to the nutrition class by applying to the school principal.

The children will meet once a week at the Junior High school to be weighed. Until school closes the meetings will be held at 4:00 p. m. on Thursdays and after June 2nd an earlier hour will be set. The first meeting will be held on May 20th.

CLAY MINER KILLED

Clark Kephart, a respected resident of Faunce, was caught by a fall of clay in the mines at that place about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and instantly killed. The deceased was about 45 years of age and is survived by his wife and several children.

Don Shirey is home from Poughkeepsie College, to spend a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Shirey.

Many mothers have recommended the work highly. Johnny and Betty don't have to be told to wash their hands and clean their teeth, etc. If these habits of cleanliness, neatness, helpfulness and cheerfulness can be made permanent in the lives of our school children, Clearfield will eventually reap the benefit.

STICK TO IT

First of all decide that the job is worth doing.

Second, that you are the person who should do it.

Third, do it.

But you won't do it if you don't stick to it until it is done.

Consider the postage stamp. How far do you suppose it would carry your letter if it dropped off before it reached the mail box?

The postage stamp carried your letter around the world, up to the top floor of the highest office building, to the lowest basement room through crowded city street, or far off into the lone-some desert, all because it sticks.

Next job you tackle consider the postage stamp.

And stick!—Akron Press.

A CHILD STOPPED TO PRAY

(From the Chicago Herald and Examiner)

It occurred at noon within the din and scramble of a cafeteria.

She was about 12 years old. Her comely features were given a studious aspect by the horn rimmed glasses perched upon her nose. Her bobbed black hair was caught up by a blue silk ribbon bow carefully exact.

She carried her tray to a table in the center of the room.

The rattle at the tables went into diminuendo and ceased. Men and women carrying trays gaped with open mouths. Persons seated became rigid with attention. The dining room was hushed.

For the child had clasped her hands before her, bent her head and closed her eyes. Her lips moved for a full minute. She was saying grace.

"There were some in the room who almost blushed," one observer reported. "During the half hour afterwards everyone was quieter. I guess they were thinking—remembering—about along the lines that I was."

A GREAT MEMORIAL DAY

It is fitting indeed, that all the military organizations of the city should unite forces for the observance of the coming Memorial Day.

Our young men are just home from France, where they left many of their comrades asleep in the meadows where the poppies will provide the only floral decorations for their graves this year.

In Flanders, in Italy, in Russia, in Siberia, in Cuba, the Philippines, China and the far-flung battlefields of our own Southland men who wore the American uniform lie buried.

For many years the veterans of the Civil War took upon themselves the duty of seeing that the graves of our hero dead were converted with flowers and decorated with the flag they died to preserve, in recent years being assisted by the men who served in the war with Spain and the Philippine insurrection which followed. Slowly, but surely, time is having its way with the Grand Army, and it is a fine thing, indeed, to note the interest the younger soldiers are taking in the ceremonies incident to Memorial Day.

What memories will be theirs as they scatter flowers over the last resting places of the gallant men who made their own later achievements possible.

Serving The Community

In its history of more than fifty years of service the County National Bank has contributed not a little to the development of the community.

Its financial assistance has been a factor in building up many of the foremost business concerns of the district.

Its helpful service is offered to progressive business men who wish a connection with a strong commercial bank.

COUNTRY MUST REDUCE CREDIT AND SAVE MONEY

WASHINGTON, May 19.—With banking credit of the United States expanded to the extent of $13,000,000,000 and production of vital commodities increased 10 per cent, the country may find itself confronted with a serious situation unless the public is made to realize the necessity for economy of expenditure and demand for banking credit.

This was the keynote of an important statement read by Governor W. G. Harding, of the federal reserve board, at a meeting of the board held yesterday to discuss the financial problems of the nation.

Governor Harding told the members of the board that the continued expansion of credit which has occurred since the flotation of the Victory loan last May, in the face of decreased production of necessities "is one of the most disquieting features of the present financial situation."

Discussing the steady expansion of credit during the period since April, 1919, Governor Harding described the situation as follows:

"From April 1, 1919, to April 1920, the increase in bank loans was approximately 25 per cent, and during the same period the rise in commodity prices was about 26 per cent. Assuming an index number of 100 for the year 1918, for each of the following—live stock, grain, lumber, coal, petroleum, pig iron, steel, cotton, and wool consumed, the average index number for the same articles in 1919 is 129.07. This indicates a falling off of at least ten per cent in the actual output of marketable goods in these important lines. It is this tendency of production to decline, particularly in some essential lines, which constitutes a very unsatisfactory element in the present outlook."

"It is evident that the country cannot continue to advance prices and wages, to curtail production, to expand credit and to attempt to enrich itself by non-productive operations."

and transaction without fostering discontent and radicalism and that such a course is persisted in will eventually bring on a real crisis."

In pointing to the remedy for this planning situation, Governor Harding stated that the first necessity was to check further expansion of credit, but that this must be effected without shock to industry. "Produce more, save more and consume less," this Governor Harding said, should be the public's motto in dealing with a situation which is rapidly becoming dangerous.

Eat Less Meat If Back Hurts

Take a glass of salts to flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you—Drink lots of water

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly back-ache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys, and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Why Brunswick Tires Win Preference

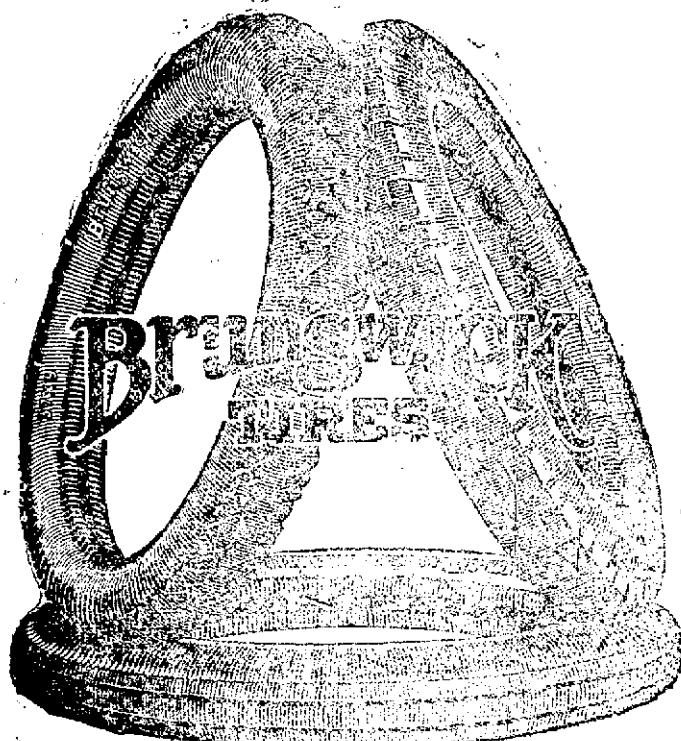

There are two main reasons—one, the name itself, which certifies superior value—the other, that time tells the same story.

Thus reputation and performance unite in giving you all you expect—and more.

Yet Brunswicks cost no more than life-type tires. Many motorists would pay more readily, but the Brunswick idea is to GIVE the utmost, rather than to GET the utmost. And this has been true since 1845. You can appreciate what Brunswick Standards mean by trying ONE Brunswick Tire. It will be a revelation. You'll agree that you could not buy a better, regardless of price.

And, like other motorists, you'll decide to have ALL Brunswicks. Then you'll know supreme satisfaction from your tires—longer life, minimum trouble, lower cost.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

CURWENSVILLE

The mite box of the ladies adult bible class has been stolen from its receptacle in the church. The box contained quite a sum of money. The sneak or sneaks who confiscated the box evidently knew just exactly where to look for the box. This is the second time that the mite box of this class has been stolen from the church.

Mrs. Daniel Schorr has received the announcement of the death of one of her sisters, which occurred at her residence in Brooklyn, N. Y., recently.

John Kelly, while out gunning for crows the other day captured a young owl which he has had on exhibition at his pool room. It is a friendly little fellow and allows itself to be handled by any and everybody.

A ball team will go from Curwensville next Friday to State College and contest in a friendly game with a club from that town of learning.

About twenty-five men from this place were taken by auto to Curry Run on Monday night to fight a fire which had been started and was raging in close proximity to timber owned by the Greenwood Lumber Company, composed principally of Curwensville men. After several hours of hard work to get the fire under control, a heavy downpour of rain came, which greatly assisted the tired workers in putting out the fire. Mr. Wolf informed the writer last evening that very little, if any damage, was done to the standing timber owned by the company and that it was very fortunate that the heavy shower of rain came at the time it did.

An attempt was made, probably last Saturday evening, to enter the Mrs. A. E. Patton home for the purpose of robbery. Entrance to the cellar was gained through a coal hole. An effort was next made to force open a door at the head of the cellar stairs to gain admittance to the first floor. The door knob was broken off and other damage done, but the door did not yield. The work was clumsily executed and looked like the work of a novice, probably some half grown boys.

The Curwensville Building and Loan association held its annual monthly session last evening in the office of Squire John A. Dale. Considerable business of a financial nature was transacted.

Several parties were in town yesterday going from house to house offering eggs at 50 cents per dozen, not knowing that the price for a week past was 45 and 46 cents per dozen.

Yesterday's primary election did not create much of a stir in this borough among the voters. About one-half of the regular vote in each ward was polled, while an unusually light vote was out in this end of Pike township. Very little interest was manifested in any of the candidates outside of the county, and no real enthusiasm was noticeable as to whether that "million dollar bond issue" carried or not. The general election in November to make their choice, arguing that by not attending the primary and not assisting by their vote in nominating a candidate they are not duty bound to support his candidacy at the general election. At this writing we are unable to give the vote as cast, as the election boards are not through counting off, as this letter goes to the mail.

START TOMORROW AND KEEP IT UP EVERY MORNING

Get into the habit of drinking a glass of hot water before breakfast.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles according to hot water enthusiasts.

These are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Gray, faded hair turned beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night, is a reality, if you'll take the trouble to mix sage tea and sulphur, but what is the use, you get a large bottle of the ready-to-use tonic, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at drug stores here. Millions of bottles of "Wyeth's" are sold annually, says a well-known druggist, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has happened. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it; Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, have a surprise awaiting them, because after just one application the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful. This is the age of youth, gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with the Sage and Sulphur tonight and you'll be amazed at your youthful appearance and the real beauty and healthy condition of your hair within a few days. Inquiry at drug stores here shows that they all sell lots of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and the folks using it are enthusiastic. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

The House of Whispers

had given him clues enough as to where to look for the plotter. I realized that it would be useless to question him further. He would admit suspecting no one until he was sure of their guilt, a quality I admired greatly.

"You can count on me," I repeated. "I'll be here at three tomorrow."

Yet how foolish it was for any of us to predict what we will be doing or where we will be twenty-four hours from now. So often do things happen in the routine of our lives as we had anticipated. I was not there the next day at the time appointed. By no possibility could I have been there, however much I might have wished to. Many things had happened in quick succession.

How it came about that my promise to meet Gordon went unfulfilled can best be explained by narrating the events of the evening after I returned to the Grand hotel. It was nearly five when I left the detective. I strolled leisurely down town and had dinner in the cafe where on one occasion I had seen the scar-faced man. I lingered there for a long time over my coffee hoping in vain that he might appear. I even ventured to cautiously question the waiter and head waiter, describing the man as best I could, but both of them insisted that they never had seen any such person. As I walked home I kept a wary eye out to make sure I was not being followed, but apparently no one was now shadowing me.

It was midnight when I reached home. It had been arranged that Barbara should have called me at my respective windows. As I sat in my room waiting for the time to come, I was reviewing the case in all its aspects. Indeed there was hardly a waking moment that I was not thinking of the many mysteries about us. I was wondering if, when the case was cleared up, the mysterious whispers that we all had heard would also be explained. I recalled Claire Bradford's unexpected visit to my apartment the evening before and her confusion when I had captured her. I wondered if the explanations she had offered had been the truth. Was she really trying to locate the source of the whispers? I looked interestedly up at the section of the wall that I had found her inspecting. What had she hoped to discover there?

I decided to make a close inspection of both sides of the wall. As I lighted up the sitting room and hall for this purpose, something unusual came to my notice that had hitherto escaped my entirely.

THE INNER WALL OF MY ROOM—the one running along the hall of the apartment—HAD THE APPEARANCE OF BEING AT LEAST FOUR FEET THICK.

It seemed so absurd that I refused to believe the evidence my eyes had given me. In these modern days of steel construction there was no reason for a wall being of medieval proportions. I sprang to my grandfather's work basket and began rummaging to see if I could find a tape measure, and luckily my search was quickly rewarded.

I sketched a rough diagram of the rear rooms, and began measuring them off, carefully checking my figures as I went along. I found myself growing wildly excited as the tape measure confirmed what my eyes already had told me. The inner wall was at least four feet thick.

With thrills at the thought of the possibility of a secret passageway, I climbed up on a chair just as Claire Bradford had done, and began inspecting the wall inch by inch. Even as I did so I could not help laughing at myself. The idea that a modern apartment building might contain a secret passageway was utterly ridiculous, yet as I pounded lightly on the wall it gave forth a hollow sound, vastly different from any other part of the room. I was convinced that between my room and the hall there was space enough at least for a passageway in which a man might walk.

I succeeded with growing interest in the wooden paneling that in my room ran clear up to the ceiling. In the other rooms there was no paneling. Mounting the chair again I pressed sharply against the wood at the point from which the sound had seemed to come. It seemed to me that the sections as I struck one of the sections a sharp blow. It dropped back a full half inch, leaving what looked like a doorway a space three feet wide by five feet high. The bottom of the opening was hardly two feet from the floor. It there was a passageway floor, this panel certainly would explain how my rooms had been surreptitiously visited.

Ever so slowly I worked at the panel trying to push it further back. If there was a passageway there in the wall I was determined to see whether it led. My efforts to move the panel further seemed hopeless. As I worked at it I heard a tapping on my window sill.

It must be Barbara. In my excitement over the find I had forgotten all about the time. I sprang from my chair and rushed to the window. I found her peering out, trying to ascertain why I had not answered her signal.

"Oh," she breathed with relief, as my head appeared. "You were there. Did you see the detective?"

"Yes," I replied, speaking as low as my excited state would permit me. "Just now I discovered something vastly more important."

"What is it?"

"A secret passageway leading into my room. It seems to run along the hall. The wall there is at least four feet thick—room for a man to walk. There is a panel in the wall in my room leading into it. I was just trying it open when you signaled."

"Oh, how I wish I could see it!"

"Why can't you? Slip out of your front door, and I'll be at my door to admit you."

"I can't do that. Mother and Claire are in the front part of the house playing bridge with some guests. They will be sure to hear me going out."

"Come in tomorrow morning, then," I suggested.

She did not answer, and before I realized what she was doing, Barbara had disappeared.

Washington's Ice Melted. George Washington put up ice. In January, 1775, his diary showed he filled a dry well under a summer house and another well in a cellar. Under date of June 5 he wrote in his diary: "Opened the well in my cellar in which I had laid up a store of ice, but there was not the smallest particle remaining. I then opened the other repository, in which I found a large store."

A traveler on a walking tour in one of the northern counties came across a solitary old man who, seated in the doorway of his cottage, was fiddling away quite regardless of such trifling conventionalities as time and tune. The traveler listened a while in amusement and then inquired casually: "When do you tune your violin?" The reply came with refreshing ingenuously: "I don't tune it—it don't sound right if I do."

Was "Withdrawing Room."

"The drawing room" is a contraction of withdrawing room. It was originally known by the latter name, and in the days of the Vikings, it was customary for the ladies to withdraw from the dining room, leaving their husbands to their drinks, while they went into the "withdrawing room."

The Art of Not Hearing.

The art of not hearing should be learnt by all. It is fully as important to domestic happiness as a cultivated ear, for which both money and time are expended. There are so many things which it is painful to hear, so very many which, if heard, will disturb the temper, corrupt simplicity and modesty, detract from contentment and happiness, that everyone should be educated to take in or shut out sounds according to his or her pleasure.—Exchange.

Absolutely All Taste Is Taken From Castor Oil

Wonderful New Process. Robs. Old Reliable Family Remedy of Disagreeable Taste

The chemist of Spence, Kellogg & Son, Inc. one of the largest manufacturers of castor oil in the world, have perfected a new and reliable process by which the taste is ABSOLUTELY removed from castor oil. In the opinion of physicians and druggists who are familiar with KILLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL, this is a remarkable improvement in a real blessing. It is the same old-fashioned castor oil that every physician prescribes for his patients, and it is the same old-fashioned castor oil that every mother uses for her children. But it is the same old-fashioned castor oil that has been ABSOLUTELY purified and has no disagreeable taste. KILLOGG'S TASTELESS CASTOR OIL is sold in 4-ounce, 8-ounce, 16-ounce, and 32-ounce bottles. It is sold in all drug stores and is sold in bulk at the rate of $2.50 a month each.

Australia's Rainfall.

A committee of the British Association for the Advancement of Science has recently collected samples of rainfall during a period of one year, at 10 stations scattered over the continent of Australia, and examined them quantitatively to determine their content of nitric and nitrous nitrogen. About 1,000 samples were examined and the results were compared with the records of the weather conditions under which the rainfall occurred. The general conclusions are that, for a given type of weather, the concentration of oxidized nitrogen in the rainfall varies inversely as the amount of rainfall, and that the total amount of oxidized nitrogen in a unit area found in the rainfall accompanying a storm depends upon the type of weather and is practically independent of the amount of rainfall, and that the total amount of oxidized nitrogen in a unit area found in the rainfall accompanying a storm depends upon the type of weather and is practically independent of the amount of rainfall. The highest total amounts of oxidized nitrogen were found at southern and inland stations in rain water resulting from monsoonal storms following a heat wave.—Scientific American.

"Shun-Pike."

Not all dictionaries contain the word "shun-pike," but it was in common use in this country a century ago and throws an amusing light on the character of some of our thrifty ancestors. A "shun-pike" was a short byroad that left a turnpike on one side of a tollgate and joined it again on the other.—Youth's Companion.

DIAMONDS OF DISTINCTION

The radiant richness of the diamond and jewelry effects we show you here are such as you'd expect people of good taste and artistic discrimination to wear. They are such as you'd expect to find at a shop which has established such a fine reputation for good goods and reliable service.

Ross & Woods

See Beauty in Long Neck.

The aim of every woman of the Burmese tribe of Padung is to elongate the neck as much as possible, and to effect this a female child has a brass wire fitted around her neck, to which additional rings are added as the years go by until she is fifteen years of age, when she is valued by the length of her collar and purchased as a wife. Girls with necks over a foot long are not common.

Positive Proof.

Landlady—"That new boarder doesn't talk about himself, does he?" Housemaid—"No." Landlady—"Wonder if he's married?" Housemaid—"Sure he is." Landlady—"How do you know?" Housemaid—"He only uses one hook in the wardrobe in his room."

Wheeling a Lion.

Lions are not tempted, like other animals, to strict obedience to their trainer's commands by the offer of tuncious foods. Practically every animal but the lion is taught to do what is wanted by giving it a reward every time it does it or makes an effort to, either a lump of sugar or a vegetable or a bit of fish or some other thing of which it is fond. This is impossible with the lion, as it eats only meat and is only allowed a certain amount of that. This increases the difficulty of the lion tamer.

Usual Result.

"So they are going to probe the situation. What will happen then?" "Then you'll know for certain there is nothing to be done about it."

Heavy Blankets Washed the Sudsy Way

Housecleaning time calls for fresh, sudsy baths for all the winter bedding, so that it may be sweetly packed away.

But are you going to try this season to do up all those heavy, woolen blankets yourself—when you can be relieved of this really fatiguing work by having us do them for you in our cleanly, laundry way?

We wash your blankets, cotton and woolen, in the foamiest of billowy suds and pure, soft water, at just the right temperature. This gentle treatment gives them a rich, velvety feeling, and preserves the nap in its original fleecy condition.

After thorough rinsing we dry your blankets in currents of pure, warm air, as hygienic as a sun bath—pure air that restores to them all their fine and downy quality.

You can send us your woolen blankets and eiderdown quilts with perfect confidence. Telephone, and our driver will call.

THE ATLANTIC REFINING COMPANY

CARPENTIER IS NOT MASTER OF OWN HOUSEHOLD

By HENRY L. FARRELL,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, May 12.—"Chorge-CHORGE."

"Oui, oui, un minot, m'cher."
"Un minot, no no, too sweet."
Thus cracks the domestic whip over Georges Carpentier.

Maybe the handsome Georges is the heavyweight champion of Europe, maybe he did give Joe Beckett passports to the Land of Nod in one punch, maybe he has enough stuff to rock the throne of Dempsey—nevertheless, he's second in his own house.

The beautiful young Georgette, his bride of a little over a month, who hasn't one-third the size of her illustrious spouse, rules the household.

"George, he used to be his own boss but the madame—she even tells him what to wear," Leon Wilson, his trainer, masseur, valet and interpreter, was saying as he selected the outfit for the day from the closet containing fifteen suits of clothes, twelve pairs of shoes, a dozen hats, twenty-five silk shirts and a few other things.

"It is not the proper wear for afternoon, but since the madame—" in a sort of soliloquy he mused.

"What does George do with all those clothes?" asked one of the newspaper men decorating the upholstery in the elaborately appointed hotel apartment of the French gods of Fisticiana.

"He wears them," a perfectly obvious answer that caused a slight chuckle at the London joke.

"You see it is like this," unimpressed of the interruption, "George he makes at least three changes a day, sometimes more, so it takes a big wardrobe."

"I used to lay out Georges clothes, but since he's married—" The door opened and in walked Georges himself forcing his attendant to cease unburdening him of the "bitter fruit" that Hymen had dished out for him.

Descamps then bowed suavely in from another door and began an illustrated lecture in frenzied English, English French and doubtless slang on why Willie Meehan, twice the victor over Jack Dempsey, would not last two ticks of a double-time watch against Georges.

Georges seconded every motion and "corrected" the technique of the illustrations several times, otherwise enjoying the performance immensely.

When it comes to "talking shop," Georges and his astute manager can "compree Amerikyan verree gude." They were all attention while one of the scribes was countering with an argument that Willie Meehan against Dempsey was the best exemplification of the old tradition that "accidents will happen."

The door on the other side of the room opened and in front of a gust of the most effectual perfume, in swept the young madame.

What transpired is best related in regular talk for the lady of the house knows only two batches of English—"How you do?" and "Goo By."

"George," she said with a coo and a coy smile.

Georges didn't register interest.

"George—George—GEORGE," she went on with an increasing crescendo that ended in a bang of vocal thunder and a staccato of tiny feet pounded on the floor.

"Oh yes, yes, my dear, in a minute," merely turning to her.

"One minute nothing," she must have been saying. "How do you get that way? When I call you, hop to it!"

And Georges hopped and trailed her into the room.

The witnesses exchanged significant glances. Descamps stopped with his arm upraised where it was about to illustrate a punch that would knock 70 pounds off Willie Meehan. Wilson shrugged his shoulders with an air of "oh hell" and the scribes tried to figure it out.

"He may pull off that lamb stuff in public but when he gets her in there I bet he tells her a few things," one of the pen pushers reasoned.

"Don't you ever think it," Wilson said, flicking a speck of dust off a new derby.

"The taxi's waitin' for Mr. and Mrs. Carpentier," the bell boy announced from the hall. The trio departed.

That gave Wilson another chance.

"The madame doesn't like boxing," he said as he smoothed a hint of a wrinkle in a heavy silk cravat. "By the way they're saying a lot of things about the madame that aren't so—"

"What's that?" both scribes at once.

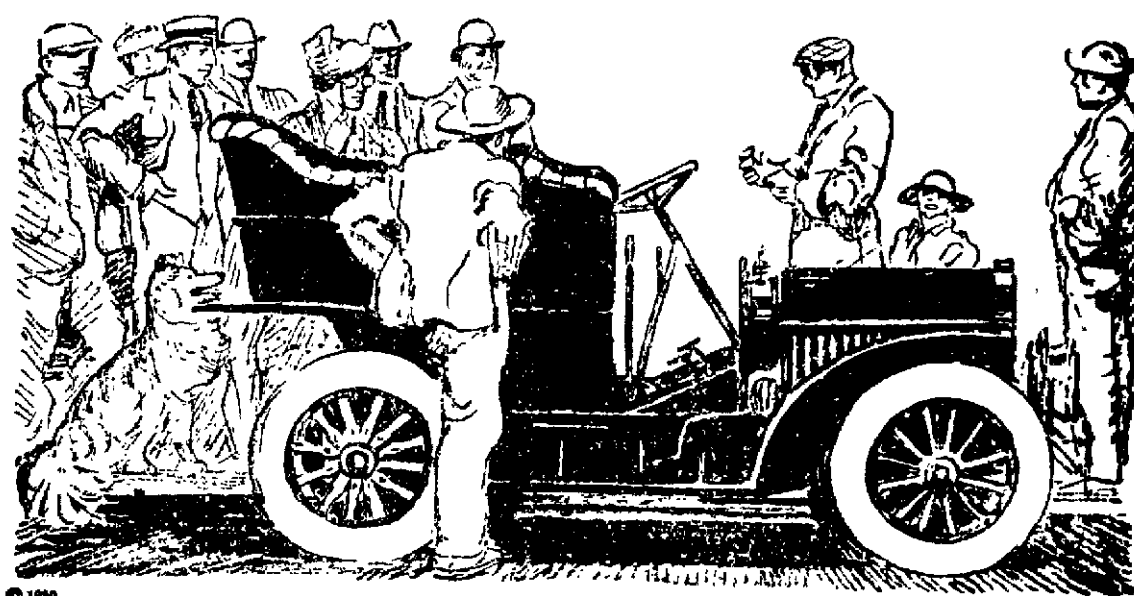

"Well, it wasn't a childhood romance and it wasn't a war romance and it wasn't a cabaret romance. George met the madame about eighteen months ago. She was a nice girl. She never sang or danced in a show. George never hung around that kind of girls. He could have if he wanted to. Lots of the girls in Paris wrote to him, they tried to kiss him and lots of 'em wanted to marry him. But he wasn't after that kind."

"Isn't the madame more than seventeen years old, Wilson?"

"I don't know. Someone told her the American girls keep their age a secret. But, as I was saying the madame won't go to see him box. She doesn't like the game."

"But she said coming up on the boat that she didn't object to her husband's profession and that he could fight if he wanted to," one of the scribes interrupted.

"Yes, oh yes, that's alright. You heard George say he would retire after the Dempsey fight," Wilson said with emphasis. "That doesn't mean that he doesn't want to fight any more. If the madame doesn't want

They used to call a man a "sport" when he bought an automobile

THAT was before the days when pretty nearly everybody owned one—or could, if he wanted to.

There was a lot of waste about motoring in those days. A man spent a lot of money on his car and never thought very much about what he was getting in return.

When a man buys a tire nowadays he has a pretty definite idea of what he expects to get out of it.

The dealer who sells him one that gives him less than he expects isn't likely to get any more of his business.

That's one of the reasons why we handle U. S. Tires—and recommend them to the motorists of this community.

The U. S. reputation for quality is not built on any one tire.

There is not one standard for large U. S. Tires and another standard for small ones.

Every tire that bears the name "U. S." is built the best way its makers know how to build it. The oldest and largest rubber concern in the world cannot afford to play favorites in seeking its public.

Come in and tell us what you are looking for in tires.

We can probably tell you whether you need a U. S. Nobby, Chain, Usco, Plain, or a Royal Cord.

Select your tires according to the roads they have to travel:

In sandy or hilly country, wherever the going is apt to be heavy—The U. S. Nobby.

ROYAL CORD—HOBBY CHAIN—USCO—PLAIN

For ordinary country roads—The U. S. Chain or Usco.

For front wheels—The U. S. Plain.

For best results—everywhere—U. S. Royal Cords.

Florida's Big Spring.
What is the largest spring in the world? Florida has one which must be near the head of the list. This is called Wakulla spring. It is 400 feet across, is 80 feet deep and flows at the rate of 120,000 gallons of water every minute. It gives rise to a river 250 feet wide at its source. This mammoth spring is situated about fifteen miles from Tallahassee.

Concerning Hobbies.
It is well to have a hobby, says the New York Mail and Journal. It is well to have a hobby which can be used as a faithful servant. It is well to have a hobby as long as you can ride it, but when it begins to ride you it is better to look about for another steed.

MOLLIE

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union)

"David," said Eleanor, "I warn you, do not propose to me again. It's getting to be the habit with you, and I am at the end of my patience. You know very well that I do not love you; if I did, I would have married you long ago. Frankly, you are not a lovable man, David, or rather, you are too humble to inspire deep admiration. Women do not wish to be 'unreasonably' adored, David. I tell you this for your own good. They admire independence in a man, it wins respect. Now, David, haven't you adored me 'unreasonably?' No matter how I have treated you, and I admit that my whims have been inexcusable—you have promptly forgiven them all, David, and such devotion is tiresome. Please stop it. Devote your mind to your work—and forget me."

Eleanor's black eyes gazed up at her patient lover relentlessly. She nodded to him without a softening smile, and bent determinedly over her desk. David sighed and turned slowly to cross the floor to where his own desk stood. He reflected, as he fell into his easy chair, that Eleanor was right. No woman respects a man's utter self-abnegation. But it had been impossible to give anything save entire devotion to Eleanor, from the moment she had first entered the office employ years ago and the vision of her there had filled his honest heart with daily joy. David had been a methodical plodder until the time of her coming; since then his hopeful dreams had fled him with a new and successful ambition, and he had risen rapidly in his place. Eleanor had accepted his attentions, the little pleasures he delighted to give her until David asked her to marry him. Eleanor did not wish to marry David. She told him so and was aggrieved that he should thus bring their friendship to a close. The dark-eyed, witching little creature had long cherished an ideal of the one who must masterfully win her heart. A dominating, yet tenderly winning prince, who, all unheeding of various other admiring maidens, would come to her and claim her.

David, bending patiently over his work, his wistful, gray eyes turned often in silent appeal toward her—David had no part in this picture. He would not, he told himself, wearily, annoy Eleanor again with his protestations, and he looked up absently at a young girl who stood before him. She was the new stenographer, he remembered, awaiting his orders. So David proceeded to give them. The girl lingered for a moment, copy book in hand, her wide blue eyes full of unspoken sympathy. Uncomfortably David realized that she, as well as the rest of the office force, was aware of his secret and hopeless affection.

During days which followed, Mollie, the new girl, was often at David's side. She formed a habit of leaving a fresh flower or two on his desk, or of staying after hours, unasked, to help him with an accumulation of work. David liked the girl. There was something so unaffectedly boyish about her. A clumsy, yet wholly respectful attendance which charmed Mollie's sincere admiration for David became an office watchword.

"If old Dave says so, it's all right," her companions would jibe.

Mollie unmoved and smiling continued her allegiance.

"He is so wonderful," the new girl ingenuously confided to Eleanor, "full of quiet power like the great men who do things in movies."

"David!" Eleanor exclaimed, "David like that!"

"And his hair," Mollie went on dreamily, "don't you love the way it sort of whitens at the sides, and the look in his gray eyes as if he'd suffered and all, and borne it."

Eleanor turned to look unbelievably in the girl's pretty rose flushed face.

"Mollie," she said slowly, "Mollie, it cannot be that you are falling in love with David Morse."

The girl tossed her head. "Why not?" she asked defiantly.

Eleanor was unusually thoughtful during the remainder of the day. She looked askance at the little stenographer when upon the following morning she placed a single carnation upon David's desk. And when David, true to his new determination, was about to pass Eleanor at closing time without a word of good-by, she arose suddenly and came with proffered hands toward him.

"David," murmured Eleanor, her confidence charmed him. "David, would you like to walk home with me tonight, I—I have missed you so."

"Like!" cried David joyously. And clasped closely the proffered hands.

"Well, Lady Eleanor's got her David back again," taunted one of Mollie's companions.

The little stenographer smiled sagely.

"All she needed was a jolt," she said.

Unlucky Simile.

"I am as innocent as a child of the charge of stealing that there hog, cap," protested an acquaintance.

"Well," replied "Cap" Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "as I've got 14 children and am totally well educated in the possibilities and probabilities of the little cusses, I'll just say that your denial don't fetch you nuth'n with me."—Kansas City Star.

NEPONSET ROOFS

Quality on Top

Your roof should be handsome, durable, fire-resisting, and economical. All these qualities are combined in the famous Neponset Twin Shingle—the roofing development of the 20th century.

Neponset Twin Shingles will not rot, dry out, peel off, break, or blow away. They are fire-safe. Easily, quickly handled. Save one-third the labor over ordinary shingles and require a third less nails. They are the only twin shingles—two shingles in one and self-spacing. Slate-surfaced. Two colors—red and green.

Come in and let us tell you more about this shingle that is the most economical artistic roofing, considering first cost, ease of laying, and years of service.
